

The Yellow Wallpaper by Charlotte Perkins Gilman and
Paul's Case by Will Cather

In both novels there is so much that the narrators do not reveal to the reader in literal diction, yet there is so much that is conveyed through motifs and symbols. Often, these literary devices speak clearer to a reader's thoughts and bring clarity to obscurity. Constructing a work that uses symbols in a natural way is the task of the writer. Discuss the symbols used in each of the novels and the message given by the author by using them. Construct the paper with a general introduction and section your paper by subtitles when discussing each work.
